Art to help dogs in need

I live in the most southern region of Portugal, the Algarve and after many years of painting, I felt that it was time to do something meaningful with my art. So, I decided to combine two things close to my heart – being creative and helping abandoned dogs.

Together we can make a difference!

Please be aware that actual colours may vary slightly due to photographic lighting sources or monitor settings.

As June saw the celebration of the first anniversary since I started dedicating a monthly painting in support of the StreetLife Animal Sterilisation Programme, I decided to take a moment to reflect and be thrilled about what we've achieved so far.

The time soon came to present the next featured painting and for the month of July, I have chosen a small abstract acrylic on paper that's titled "Heat of Summer".

I painted this piece during a heat wave last summer and because the paint dried almost immediately, I was forced to work quickly with no opportunity to make corrections. This makes it an authentic work, really capturing the mood of the moment. Plants and animals were suffering and struggling to survive in the extreme heat. I felt keenly that the summer heat had almost turned toxic, hence the pink layer.

If you are looking for wall art to add a splash of bold colour into a small space, this framed painting might be just right for you!
